FOURIESBURG COUNTRY INN

WELCOME TO FOURIESBURG

Your Adventure Begins Here!

Tucked away in the breathtaking foothills of the Maluti Mountains, where the Free State brushes up against Lesotho's majestic border, lies one of South Africa's best-kept secrets, Fouriesburg. This is not just a town; it's a feeling, a rhythm, a breath of fresh, highland air.

Whether you're craving the crispness of golden sandstone cliffs, the charm of quiet country lanes, or the thrill of mountain adventures, Fouriesburg wraps it all into one unforgettable escape. Picture yourself wandering through cherry orchards in full bloom, hiking to ancient caves adorned with San rock art, or sipping local wine as the sun melts behind snow-dusted peaks.

In Fouriesburg, life moves a little slower, and that's exactly the point. Here, you'll find boutique guesthouses and cozy farm stays, welcoming faces, hearty homemade meals, and stories waiting to be discovered around every corner. From stargazing under some of the clearest skies in the country to exploring scenic mountain passes, the possibilities are as wide as the vistas.

This guide is your passport to the best of Fouriesburg and its surround, including the charming hamlet of Mashaeng, the scenic beauty of the Meiringskloof Nature Park, and the gateway adventures into Lesotho via the historic Caledonspoor border post.

So whether you're here for a weekend getaway, a romantic retreat, a cultural journey, or just a much-needed reset — welcome. You're exactly where you need to be.

Discover Fouriesburg. Breathe in. Slow down. Fall in love.

HISTORY

Fouriesburg is a town steeped in history. Established in 1892 on the farm of Christoffel Fourie, it later became the temporary capital of the Orange Free State during the Anglo-Boer War. Reminders of this turbulent past remain, from the nearby Boer War concentration camp memorial to the stately sandstone NG Church that anchors the town.

The artistry of Fouriesburg lives on in its hand-carved sandstone buildings, local galleries, and craft markets where creativity flourishes. Set against the golden farmlands and Maluti Mountain backdrop, the rural way of life – from seasonal harvests to hearty hospitality – is woven into everyday experiences. Together, this blend of History, Art, Rural life, and Culture (HARC) defines the soul of Fouriesburg.

WELCOME TO ROSENDAL

The Free State's Best Kept Secret

Rosendal is a small farming town and arts colony 45 km north of Ficksburg in the Free State province of South Africa which was founded in 1908. It has become a popular tourist destination, known for spectacular scenery, including the surrounding Witteberg mountains, and is home to a community of artists and small business owners. The town has a number of attractive buildings and restored early-20th-century homes. The quality of architectural design for newly built homes is notable, adding to the town's attractive character. This includes a number of "Tiny Homes" which has earned Rosendal a reputation for becoming South Africa's tiny home capital. There are art galleries, cafes and restaurants as well as a heritage district of restored buildings in the former downtown.

ART & CULTURE

ark. contemporary

Tel: +27 79 587 6282

Established in 2021 ark. contemporary showcases the collective endeavours of a group of accomplished Rosendal-based artists. Hailing from diverse artistic backgrounds, these individuals converge at ark. contemporary to foster collaboration and showcase their unique visual perspectives. The gallery provides a dedicated exhibition space separate from their personal studios, offering visitors an opportunity to engage with their work and immerse themselves in creative expression. The gallery collective includes Grietjie Lee, Louis Olivier, Stella Olivier and Wessel van Huyssteen.

The Gallery Gift Shop offers a selection of thoughtfully curated items for purchase.

Pretorius Studio Gallery

Tel: +27 76 159 0525

Willem and Linda Pretorius, both accomplished artists, established the Pretorius Studio Gallery in Rosendal. In addition to showcasing their own work, the gallery also serves as a platform for other artists, fostering a vibrant creative community. Visitors are encouraged to engage with the artworks on display and perhaps even find inspiration of their own.

Grietjie Lee

Grietjie is a multi-disciplinary artist who works with a combination of beeswax and tree gum to create bas relief sculptures. Targeted animals, so-called vermin, such as the Black Backed Jackal, are a porthole for exploring the conflict at the confluence of wild and contained. Her abstract watercolour markings are inspired by the indigenous Rat's Tail grasses (Sporobolus Africanus).

ARK. CONTEMPORARY

ART & CULTURE

Wessel van Huyssteen

Tel: +27 79 587 6282

Wessel is a multimedia artist who creates intricate and detailed watercolour drawings to portray his interest in the landscape and the concept of space, place and non-place and how to engage these phenomena in the age of the Anthropocene. The textile works consist of densely sewn machine stitching onto layers of Viscose, Rayon and Nylon. The layers are cut and re-sewn to excavate and construct disrupted geographies.

Viewing at ark. contemporary

Louis Olivier

Tel: +27 79 587 6282

Louis is a sculptor who mainly works in bronze and owns the Workhorse Bronze Foundry in Johannesburg. His sculptures are often beings that are both figurative and abstract. His drawings and collages are renditions of his sculptures. Louis is known for his collaborations with artists including William Kentridge, Wilma Cruise and Cobus Haupt.

Viewing at ark. contemporary

Stella Olivier

Stella is primarily a photographer who is interested in capturing evidence of stories as they unfold in real time, and seconds later become historic. She has photographed several local and international performers and artists. She also works with charcoal and ink on paper and in these drawings, she combines images to create stories that never existed.

WILLEM PRETORIUS

ART & CULTURE

Michèle Ngrini

Tel: +27 79 587 6282

One of the first professional artists to make Rosendal her home, Michèle is a colourist who captures a personal response to what she sees. Her approach is based on visual sensations and the play between line, colour and structure, with mark-making being the most fundamental element in her work. Michèle aims not to copy nature, but to capture the essence of things.

Willem Pretorius

Tel: +27 79 587 6282

Willem finds his inspiration in the smells and sights of the small towns of South Africa. His theme is mainly concerned with the "platteland" and its changing landscapes. It can be seen as a type of visual diary where he documents a specific time and place and in doing so, remembering. It also reminds us of our own transience and mortality. Everything is temporary. He works in oil and his style can best be described as observational realism with a strong South African vernacular. Viewing at Pretorius Studio Gallery

Lein Smuts

Tel: +27 82 782 6532

Rosendal artist and curator Lein Smuts, predominately works in charcoal, capturing the dramatic beauty of the Eastern Freestate landscape. She also works with various other mediums and techniques, portraying the direct environment around her. Lein believes that art should be accessible to everyone and strives to create beautiful and affordable work. Her goal is to share her artwork with as many people as possible to make a positive impact in the world around her.

MICHÈLE NGRINI

ART & CULTURE

Linda Pretorius

Tel: +27 79 587 6282

Linda's works are tenderly-observed and evoke the often-unacknowledged tension that comes with family life. Like her family's Instagram handle 'Skoppelmaai' (the Afrikaans word for 'swing'), her works oscillate between the domestic contrasts of stillness and chaos, beauty and the grotesque and the search for stability amongst them. Linda completes each painting in one sitting at the family dining table.

Magda van der Vloed

Tel: +27 82 454 2531

Magda is a Rosendal based, multifaceted artist who forges objects from her imagination into the world of ceramics and paint, depicting the vices of our society. She draws the viewer's attention to how we live in a perilous and precarious time. Her theme is inspired by her personal narratives, while offering commentary on the social-political context of South Africa.

Growth is a central theme in my life and I believe that growth also occurs when people share their experiences - art is a universal medium to do this. I derive joy from the everyday and therefore I especially enjoy painting flowers. I have lived in Rosendal since January 2023 and derive joy from the natural beauty, unforgettable sunsets and tranquility.

ART & CULTURE

Bull & Satchel

Bull & Satchel was established in 2019 when a hobby had everyone lining up for their own piece of handcrafted leather. Hobby turned into a one-man-band business, and later on into a two-man studio producing a range of artisanal full grain leather goods. The craftsmen pride ourselves on offering superior artisanal leather items for everyday use. They use only ethically sourced 100% leather. All products are hand cut and crafted, with good old elbow grease to burnish the edges and round off these exceptional products.

Zaria de Villiers Martens

Tel: +27 83 725 2080

Zaria is a well-known South African multi-media artist who discovered Rosendal in 2001. Her work includes painting, mosaics, pottery, spinning, weaving and hand-painted yarns. Zaria is still challenged by the discovery and practice of new mediums. Her saying; "Wie's bang?" makes her a truly multi-media artist. She now works primarily as a Fibre artist producing art that is both functional and wearable.

HISTORY, ART, RURAL & CULTURE

Rosendal—from frontier settlement to ghost town and back again

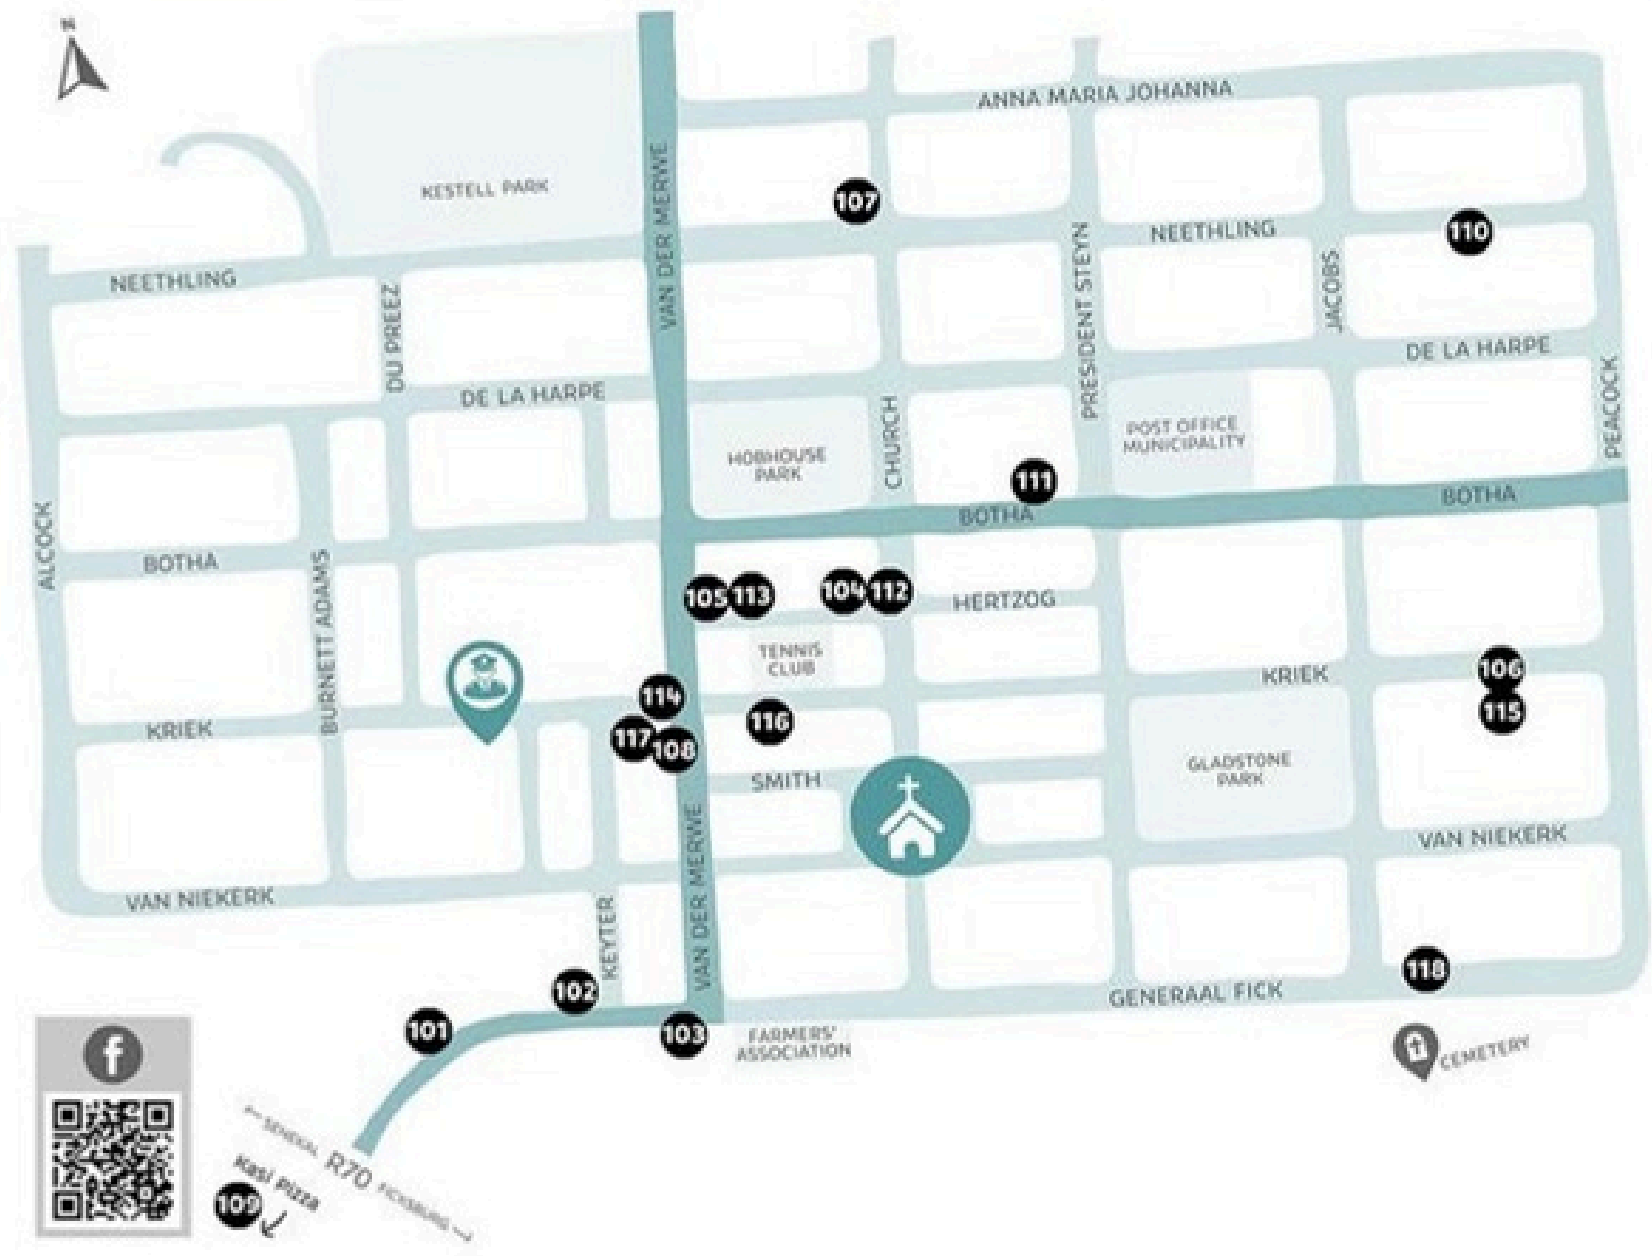

A Blacksmiths shop, a Post Office, a Bank, a Saloon, a Church and a General Dealer store—these are the first things you see for a settlement in an American cowboy movie and the early history of South Africa’s rural towns was not that different. These functional structures, reflecting the rural commerce and community of the eastern Free State of the early 20th Century, were the first to be built in Rosendal after it was founded in 1908. Today, they are restored and form a small heritage district in this farming town and arts colony.

Back then, Rosendal had formed around the needs of local farmers for commercial services and religious communion that could be easily reached by ox-wagon or horseback. Thus, the early decades of the 20th Century brought into being the town we see now—its tiny business district, and a collection of sandstone homes and brick and plaster cottages, overlooked by a magnificent Dutch Reformed Church. Like nearly all towns in the Free State, it is approximately 45km from the nearest other settlements, Ficksburg or Senekal, the distance that could be ridden in a day on horseback.

But Rosendal did not fully grow into the settlement it was planned to be. This is responsible for what is now a much remarked upon feature—its distinctive low density character. There are long distances between houses and it is not obvious where the town begins and ends. This is due to Rosendal’s unique history as an unfinished town. When it was founded, a grid pattern of streets were laid out for what was intended to be a sizeable settlement. But, located in an isolated area, up against the Witteberg Mountain range to the east, Rosendal did not fulfil this early promise. Of 577 demarcated stands less than 150 are built upon. If that was at one time a disappointment, or a sign of unfulfilled potential, it is now an asset of considerable value. Homes surrounded by what appear to be open fields create an impression of living in open country side. Even when “full”, the town looks empty.

After brisk growth for its first decades as a town Rosendal by the 1960s entered prolonged commercial decline. The opening of a paved road to Senekal and Ficksburg in 1958 diverted retail spending away to larger towns and with the closure of the Afrikaans language school in 1982, the town had lost its vitality. By then it had acquired the features of a ghost town, with many abandoned or derelict buildings. At one point it is estimated there were less than 20 full time residents. Many of the old sandstone homes and buildings were knocked down or their precious sandstone pilfered at this time, leaving the bare foundations that exist now, here and there, as their only reminder.

This reversed from the mid 1990s when a group of writers, artists and adventurers began to call it home, sparking a creative revival. Rosendal remains at heart a working farming town, where livestock wander and sotho cowboys on horseback herd cattle down the main street. This authenticity accounts for much of the town’s current character and appeal. Rosendal, in this regard, is, if not one of the eastern Free State’s most prominent towns, at least one of the most engaging and pleasant.
